1,000 See Breakfast Exhibits

A clear, sunny morning helped boost attendance at the third annual Community Breakfast and Fair last Saturday to approximately 1,000.

The chow line served hundreds of breakfasts of flapjacks, sausage and the trimmings from 7 a.m. until 1 p.m. There were 756 breakfast tickets sold by members of the sponsoring Kiwanis Club.

A new feature added this year were the displays put on by local industries, businesses and civic groups. Among the most prominent were "Sierra Sam," the synthetic man created by Sierra Engineering Co., equipment used by the Search and Rescue Squad, and the Nursery School booth.

Another feature of the affair was the presentation of certificates of merit by Mayor David Wood to members of the Rescue Squad.

Silver dollars, minted in 1890 or earlier, were exchanged for validated breakfast tickets by 579 persons, just 10 more than exchanged them at the breakfast last year.

The Kiwanis Club purchased some of the food served, but a considerable portion was donated through the cooperation of Roberts Market.

Money collected from sale of the $1 breakfast tickets will be used by the Kiwanis Club to assist worthy institutions here, James Wolfe, Kiwanis Club president, was in charge.

First Summer Band Concert Starts June 27

Excerpts from "My Fair Lady," Sousa's "King Cotton," "Colonel Bogey" and the "Overture in Classical Style," by Carter, will feature the first of this summer's Friday evening concerts by the Sierra Madre Concert Band on June 27 at 8 p.m. in Memorial Park.

The band, directed by Walter R. Laursen, is composed entirely of volunteer adults, both amateur and professional musicians, and is being sponsored by the City Recreation Department for the fourth year. Attendance at last year's concerts averaged 250 persons.

This year's schedule of performances, on June 27, July 11, July 25, August 8, August 22, and Sept. 12, will include marches, classics, and popular numbers.

Enough new benches to seat at least 100 persons have been placed in the amphitheater at Memorial Park.

PTA Plans Hollywood Bowl Concert

The Rodgers and Hammerstein concert on Saturday, July 12, has been chosen by the Sierra Madre PTA as the first evening at the Hollywood Bowl planned for local music lovers.

Mrs. Dale Howbert, PTA music chairman, and Mrs. Kenneth Bush, member of the Hollywood Bowl Committee, have arranged for a chartered bus to leave Kersting Court at 6:45 that evening. Round trip bus fare is $1 and admission to the Bowl is 75 cents. Children under 10 will not be charged for the bus.

Reservations and payment for bus and Bowl tickets may be placed with Carl Engel at The Music Shop or mailed to Mrs. Bush at 633 W. Sierra Madre Blvd.

Reservations for July 12th must be made not later than June 28, at which time a block of seats at the Bowl will be reserved for Sierra Madre ticket-holders.

The Rodgers and Hammerstein concert will feature soloists and the Roger Wagner Chorale in hit tunes from stage and screen successes by the composer and lyricist. Johnny Green will conduct the orchestra.

For further information call Mrs. Howbert, ELgin 5-0514, or Mrs. Bush, ELgin 5-1562. For general information regarding other Bowl offerings or season tickets, call Mrs. Gifford Eastwood, ELgin 5-3085, local Bowl chairman.

TWO OTHER local organizations will co-sponsor "Bus-to-Bowl" evenings. The Woman's Club will promote a symphony under the stars program on July 31st with Bruno Walter conducting and famed pianist, Van Cliburn, as guest artist.

The Civic Club of Sierra Madre will assist with plans for a Friday "Personality Night" at the Bowl featuring Nat "King" Cole late in August. Block reservations for these concerts will be in the starlight section of the Bowl and will cost $1.25 for admission and $1 for bus fare.

Fire Chief James Heasley

City Mourns Death Of Fire Chief Heasley

James C. Heasley, fire chief, policeman and respected citizen of Sierra Madre since 1920, died in his home at 536 Oakdale Dr. Monday following an apparent heart attack. He would have been 67 years old Aug. 29.

Possibly Sierra Madre's best-known resident, Mr. Heasley reported for duty at the Police Department Monday morning, but became ill and had to go home. He apparently died shortly after 12 noon.

WHEN INFORMED of Mr. Heasley's death, City Administrator Lawrence C. Bevington ordered the flag on City Hall flown at half mast until after funeral services today.

In addition, all merchants will close their doors today from 11 a.m. to 12 noon in memory of the fire chief. This is one of only a few times in Sierra Madre's history that a resident has been so honored.

Mr. Heasley moved to Sierra Madre in 1920 from Tarentum, Pa., an industrial town near Pittsburgh. He joined the Police Force here in December, 1930, and in 1943 became chief of the Volunteer Fire Department.

As fire chief, Mr. Heasley's main concern was in "keeping the fires out" and he and the department have obtained an enviable record in fire prevention work.

His column, "Fire Flames," which appeared for many years in The Sierra Madre News (see Page 2, Section 2), was often humorous in nature, but always stressed the necessity of citizen cooperation in keeping the city's loss at a minimum.

Top Divers to Feature New Pool Dedication

Speeches, a flag raising, band music and a free aquatic show will feature the formal dedication and grand opening ceremonies of the new city swimming pool at Sierra Vista Park on Sunday, June 22, at 1 p.m.

Master of ceremonies will be Frank Barbour, chairman of the Parks and Recreation Commission, who is in charge of arrangements. He is being assisted by Commissioners James McCoy, Milton Goldberg and Margaret Anthony.

THE SIERRA HASTINGS District of the Camp Fire Girls has donated a flag pole and flag for Sierra Vista Park, which will be presented by the Wino-ta group.

Judy Nordyke and Paula Bryant, assisted by Virgil Nordyke, will raise the flag. Penny Schoennel will lead the flag salute. Others participating include Nancy Couchman, Lauren Davidson, Mary Fox, Kathy Kindrick, Maribelle Lammers, Melissa Nash, Vickie Petosa, Pixie Sherk, Candy Sulter, and Paula Walker, led by Mrs. Arthur Fox and Mrs. William Kindrick.

The Sierra Madre Concert Band, directed by Walter Laursen, will provide music before and after the ceremony.

A plaque for the front of the pool house, dedicating the pool to the people of Sierra Madre, will be presented to former Mayor Charles H. James by Herman Ohs, former recreation chairman.

The plaque will contain the names of the members of the City Council under whose direction the pool was built, present Mayor David Wood, former Mayor James, Harold Roberts, Herbert Harrison, and Lorne Pratt.

THEY, AND newly elected Council members Lorraine Lisle, James Abernethy, and Milton Emerson, as well as members of the Planning Commission, Parks and Recreation Commission, School Board, Library Board, and

Merchants Join Club's 'City of Flowers' Program

More than a dozen local businesses are participating in the Garden Club's plan to have Sierra Madre known as "the City of Flowers."

Certificates which entitle any householder to a discount on purchases of flowers and shrubs from the local nurseries are being placed in the business district by Leland Marsh, club president.

The list of locations where the certificates may be obtained will be announced next week.

Residents of any block or neighborhood who desire a specific floral pattern may select their own. In this way, flowers will be blooming in Sierra Madre the year around.

City Crafts, Play Program Starts In Park June 23

The summer crafts and play program of the City Recreation Department gets under way at the Youth Hut in Sierra Vista Park on Monday, June 23, at 9 a.m.

Sierra Madre children will be offered a variety of craft ideas, according to Dorothy Eagle, newly employed craft instructor. Displays of items which may be made will enable children to choose according to their age and level of skill.

Material available will include copper, clay, leather, linoleum blocks, and plaster of paris. Nature crafts will featured each week as part of the nature exploring program.

Ideas and material will be provided for footprint casts, insect cages, leaf prints, bird feeders, mounting collections, and others. Cost per item will be based on the price of the material.

Miss Eagle, a junior at L.A. State College, is majoring in arts and crafts, and plans to enter the field of education. She will be assisted this summer by Tracy Welch.

City Is Big Donor in Heart Drive

Business and residential collections for the 1958 Heart Fund in Sierra Madre accounted for $1095.35 of the county total of $1,043,007, it was disclosed yesterday in a report on the final returns from pledges received during the February Heart Campaign.

Mrs. Robert deWeese, 480 N. Lima, Sierra Madre Heart Sunday chairman, expressed appreciation to the 97 volunteers who collected $976.30 on Heart Sunday, February 23.

Business chairman, Marvin Neelands, 100 W. Sierra Madre Blvd., reports that Sierra Madre businessmen collected $119.05 during Business Invest in Heart Days, February 13-14.

Emerson Spear, county Heart Fund chairman, praised the Sierra Madre volunteers for their efforts which put the Heart Fund over the $1,000,000 goal for the second consecutive year.

Spear predicted the goal, established as a minimum to meet the needs for research, education and community services in the fight against cardiovascular disease, will be exceeded by $100,000 by the end of the fiscal year.

The Flame Still Burns

"Fire Flames," the column that appeared for many years in The Sierra Madre News, will be no more. But the memory of the author, Fire Chief James Heasley, will live for decades.

Chief Heasley's untimely death saddened us all here at The Sierra Madre News, as it must have saddened every one who knew him. And his friends were legion.

A BIG MAN who exuded good humor and who always appeared in the pink of condition, Jim probably never did an unkind thing in his life. As a Sierra Madre policeman, he was a true peace officer whose specialty was soothing disputes among neighbors and families.

Jim seldom felt it necessary to make an arrest, but if he did you could be sure the offender deserved everything he got.

As chief of the Volunteer Fire Department, Jim worked tirelessly to "keep the fires out." He was respected by the men in the Fire Department and he helped build Sierra Madre's volunteer unit into one of the best of its kind in the state.

The words, "May he rest in peace," are superfluous in Jim's case, for it is certain that he will. His conscience was untroubled; he was respected and loved by all, and he in turn felt only kindness toward his fellow man.

The fire is out, but the flame of Chief Heasley's personality will burn for years.—H.W.E.

No TV Tax District, Please

Nearly everybody who owns a television set in Sierra Madre would, I'm sure, like better reception and more stations.

Thus the plan as presented by F. C. Carpenter at a meeting of the City Council last week has merit. He proposes to build a translator station on a mountain behind Sierra Madre which would insure good reception from seven stations.

THE COST seems reasonable—$25 for an attachment to your television set and $5 a year to maintain the station and provide for continuous service. In this venture, we wish Mr. Carpenter complete success.

He made another suggestion, however, which probably will give tax-conscious Sierra Madreans the shudders. And people who don't like television—there are some—would have cause to grind their teeth in rage.

Mr. Carpenter pointed out that in several areas, translator stations are supported by tax districts. In other words, people in these areas pay for television whether they like it or not.

IT SEEMS extremely unlikely that this scheme will ever be adopted in Sierra Madre. Indeed, Mr. Carpenter did not propose it seriously.

But on the off chance that a group of dedicated lovers of westerns and quiz shows desire to propagandize for a tax district and thus spread the cost, we wish to object immediately.

Television is not yet, thank goodness, akin to the staff of life.—H.W.E.

Lee Shippey asks
What Do You Think?

I've just received word that our Sierra Madre home has been sold, and escrow papers are on the way. We wished to sell it, yet we can't sign those papers without a pang. We lived in that house for 30 years and reared our children there.

One often thinks, "If only these walls could speak," and those walls often did. Indeed, when the children were at the crayon drawing stage there was often more handwriting on the walls than Belshazzar ever saw in Babylon.

For 30 years children—first our children, then our grandchildren—came tumbling down the stairs every Christmas morning to try to catch Santa, whose sleighbells they had heard. Some of them often caught a glimpse of him just before he vanished, but none ever quite caught him.

The grand old deodar in the front yard was our daughter's first Christmas tree, then being only four feet tall, in a pot. We can't think of the fireplace or the living room without remembering friends who helped so much to make the house the home of happiness. And we shall carry those memories in our hearts for all our days.

We still own some property in Sierra Madre, and bank there, and have so many ties of affection with it that we shall hope to visit it often.

ONE THING which makes us feel at home here in Del Mar, though, is that there are more than twice as many Republicans as Democrats here. In that respect it is just like Sierra Madre, only more so.

However, we all get along most specially.

A Democrat is president of the Chamber of Commerce, another heads the Kiwanis Club, and good neighbors all over town can talk politics without getting angry.

But while the Democrats are far in the minority they are feeling mighty confident this year. They organized a club the other night and expect to line up 100 or more members.

They expect Knight and Knowland to defeat one another and can't see why anyone who does things for which a few Truman appointees were kicked out can be cleaner than a hound's tooth if he happens to be a pal of Ike's.

CERTIFICATE OF MERIT

Dear Sir:

On Saturday June 14th at the Sierra Madre Memorial Park, the citizens of Sierra Madre saw fit to bestow upon us a certificate of merit for the work beyond the call of duty. We bow our heads in humility, for the trust and faith that must be yours.

I am indeed proud of the Rescue Team that I command. The efficiency of the team does not come by accident or by sheer luck. There are 10 leaders in our team able to command and operate any rescue regardless of size or magnitude. My brothers, S/Sgt. Earl and Sgt. Edward LaLone, have been the example of loyalty which is hard to describe. With Sgt. Miner Harkness and Sgt. Bill Wark they have trained other members by the hour to gain an international reputation.

THANKS TO other agencies that have made our rescue a success. The Los Angeles County Sheriffs organization, of which we are a part, is to be commended for its round-the-clock effort to see that we do not lack communication, aerial support and transportation.

Thanks to the employers who have seen fit to "render our boys that someone may live:

Lever Bros. of L. A.; Florence Ceramics of Pasadena; Harkness Insurance of Pasadena; Postmaster Louk of Sierra Madre; Robert LaLone, Shell Oil Station; Charles Kassler Studio of Pasadena; McCarron Masonry; Pacific Telephone; Bill Walston, contractor, Arcadia; Dick Anderson, contractor, Arcadia; Cal Tech, Pasadena.

Also thanks to Mr. and Mrs. John Suter of 600 Auburn for their support in our equipment fund and to all who have contributed that we might have the best. We again thank you.

MAY THE good Lord give us strength throughout the coming year to complete the task of preventing tragedies in our mountains. Mountain safety begins at home. Obey all safety rules, read all signs posted by the United States Forest Service.

We are grateful in having with us Ranger Ralph Shaugrey. Listen to the advice of the boys at Chantry Plats, Bill Adams and Hubert Herick, for they are there to guide and protect you.

To the parents of our youth, this advice: Work, play, and pray with your children and you will never need us.

Thanks, again,
Lt. Fred LaLone.

MOLDERS OF OPINION

Dear Sir:

Because I have just had the rather surprising experience of discovering that a letter I wrote to a congressman was read in its entirety in the House of Representatives, and is a part of the Congressional Record of May 28th, I am deeply strengthened in my belief of the personal responsibility we all carry in a democratic society.

All my life I have had the conviction that each of us is in some way irrevocably entwined with the whole, and when we ignore or attempt to deny this basic spiritual and real interdependence, we thereby shrink in some measure, and render a tear in the overall fabric of humanity.

Rep. Charles O. Porter has visited the Eniwetok H-bomb testing area, and has a bill before the House to suspend nuclear testing, embodying proposals made by Adlai Stevenson in '56.

When I learned of this through devious channels (not the free press) I wrote him in support and deep gratitude, public recognition of my letter being furthest from my mind.

The fact that he felt moved to read it into the record, however, serves to illustrate, I think, that it does help for us to use our democratic right to make ourselves heard to our representatives, to protest what we feel to be grossly wrong, and to encourage those who are courageous enough to buck the majority and speak out for the "risk" of waging peace.

I am becoming more and more convinced, in addition to a firm conviction of our personal moral responsibility to the common good, of the deep responsibility the press of the nation carries, as chief molders of public opinion. People, by and large, know only "what they read in the newspapers," and therefore I deem it a serious thing for newspaper people to be aware of the sort of reporting they do, and of the great need to avoid the sort of news-making or reporting that tends to arouse and play to emotions.

Our society is today sick, whether we like to admit it or not; people feel vague insecurity, a sense of meaninglessness to their lives, hostility to ideas which are not comfortable.

I am sure that individual members of the fourth estate are good guys, but I just wonder if they are at all aware of their power in these times?

TERRY MACKENZIE.

"Toss your fur coat in the back seat and hop in, Mac—I'm going as fast as Casper."

Around the Square

City librarians are issuing numbered cards to townspeople in the new card-carrying scheme inaugurated last week. From now on, adults will present these sand-colored pasteboards when borrowing books (juveniles are excepted)—which should greatly expedite checking, filing, etc. A $3 fee is charged for out-of-town subscriptions, and non-property owners must give a reference.

The advent of the Gaylord checking machine promises greater speed and accuracy, but until everyone is re-registered, the bibliotheca tenders are swamped (changing book pockets, making new cards and date-due slips, etc.)—so patience, please!

HOLEY POLES. Any basement inventor brewing up a woodpecker-proof solution for telephone poles? The birds seem to thrive on the standard cypress pole coating. At the corner of Baldwin and Highland, linemen worked several days removing the 21-year-old pole—a mere peck-pocked shell of its former sturdy self.

THE SCHEDULED July 22nd opening of Pacific Ocean Park has kept Gifford Eastwood busy commuting (he logs 2½ hours daily) between here and Santa Monica. Why? He's operations manager for the entire project and is very enthusiastic over this unique potpourri of Marineland, Disneyland and amusement park.

The $10 million spectacle (owned by the L.A. Turf Club and CBS) took over 18 months to build. It boasts 24 rides and other attractions, i.e., diving bells, sea circus, enchanted forest, undersea caverns, Neptune's kingdom, etc.

Giff graduated from Rhode Island University with a degree in business administration, and also studied law at the University of Maryland. His administrative talents have long been evident, as he's had the responsibility of managing operations for the L.A. Turf Club since 1945.

AUTO TO ABERDEEN. Retired Grammar School custodian Arthur Brown and wife, Alma, are driving to Aberdeen, Idaho, for a "no time limit" stay with their son, Tim and family. Tim, who was born and raised in Sierra Madre, moved to Idaho 11 years ago and now raises potatoes, hay and grain on an 80-acre farm.

DOGGY SHOWER? Someone should give a dog food shower for "Cindy." Boxer mother of nine pups last week. She's consuming seven cans of dog food daily. Cindy belongs to Dick and Marie Hartley (and four sons) and has totaled 39 pups in her four years of motherhood.

During Cindy's final weeks-in-waiting, neighbors and kids kept a watchful eye out as she huffed around the block to keep in condition. On the Big Day, well-wishers came in shifts to admire her brood of eight males and one female—all black.

WARM WELCOME. Twenty-three relatives will be waving wildly when Edith Coy steps off the Greyhound Bus in Detroit, Saturday. She'll be seeing her three daughters, 16 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren during six weeks of visits—scattered about Michigan and Illinois like dots on a salesman's map.

Which Side Is Un-American Committee On?

By Robert G. Spivack

LIVE AND LEARN—Even the most ardent defenders of Joe McCarthy and the Senate Internal Security Committee are growing disillusioned with the House Un-American Activities Committee. The disillusionment was given expression by Frank Waldrop, one of the men closest to the late Bertie McCormick, publisher of the right-wing Chicago Tribune. Waldrop was editor of the Washington Times Herald, McCormick's Washington outlet.

These are some highlights from a recent letter Waldrop wrote to the editor of The Washington Post:

"I have just finished trying to read a document entitled 'International Communism,' . . . published Dec. 16, 1957, by the House Committee on Un-American Activities as a staff consultation with Gen. Charles A. Willoughby, the former chief of Army intelligence in the Far East command under Gen. MacArthur.

"Gen. Willoughby proves without any doubt that Communists have designs on Indonesia and that Communists exist in Indonesia and have influence there. This astonishing discovery equals in news value and importance the truth that Communists have designs on the United States, that Communists exist here and have influence here.

"Sometimes, indeed, when I reflect on my now nearly 30 years of intensive effort to understand communism and its unique methods of operation, I am almost persuaded that it has built as one of the most effective forces the House Committee on Un-American Activities, with which I have spent so many futile hours of efforts and vain hope that it would learn its business."

WALDROP CONTINUES: "What excuse, in God's name, has any committee of Congress for spending the taxpayers' money on such indefensible drivel as this compound of Willoughby's? By what test can the committee justify issuing this 'staff consultation' as if it were a thing of value and discovery?"

Waldrop discusses some of his own personal knowledge of the situation in Indonesia and then goes on to say:

"If we want them to fail

we can continue puffing up such peculiar thoughts as those which seem to obsess Willoughby, namely, that calling Indonesian leaders hard names will make them go away . . .

"Such a policy of negation and fretful childishness has already cost us much in the Middle East. Now are we to cost ourselves remnants of friendship in the Pacific regions, such as we have?"

"Just which side is this Willoughby working for, anyhow? And, I may ask the same of this nonsensical committee which has, indeed, at last established itself as clearly the true committee on Un-American activities. The joke is feeble and damned tired, I will admit, and I wish it didn't fit. But it does."

SINCE DISCLOSURES that a Massachusetts millionaire has picked up the tab for $2,000 worth of comfort and entertainment provided Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams, this has officially been labelled by White House correspondents as "Watch - Sherman - squirm - week."

Your Congressman . . .

Reuther Mainly a Politician, Says Hiestand

By Edgar W. Hiestand
Rep., 21st District

It has been said that United Auto Worker's President Walter Reuther is one part labor leader and nine parts politician. While correct in principle, this appraisal is conservative in proportions.

No pork-chop laborite, he; wages, hours and working conditions, matters of primary concern to other union men, are of little interest to this skilled political practitioner. A fair conclusion, shared by a number of Reuther's opponents within the labor movement, is that he is merely using the UAW and its highest office to further his own political ideology.

The UAW springboard has long since sprung, launching him into the outer space of Michigan, California and national politics. In these busy days, he finds scant time to delve into the humdrum affairs of the Auto Workers.

REUTHER HAS kibitzed every national event of publicity value for the past 20 years, from his vantage point in the UAW. He has submitted to the general public, unsolicited "Reuther" plans for salvaging the stricken French liner, "Normandie," for producing 500 aircraft a day with surplus auto manufacturing machinery, for construction of a portable fallout shelter. If all of Reuther's plans were laid end to end, they would reach from the cloakroom of the United States Senate (where he has been known to hold press conferences), to the California governor's mansion (a gleam in his twinkling eyes).

A man of many words, Reuther has made no secret of his ambitions. They have been delineated, in the first person, from thousands of platforms over a period of two decades.

"We must remake the economy of this country," he has said. "We can no longer afford to confine ourselves to bargaining over wages and working conditions. . . . We must seek a real voice in the making of fundamental economic decisions."

Reuther believes the time is here when labor must take over some of the functions of management and government. His idea is to compel management to accept the "cooperation" of labor, meaning Walter Reuther, in setting up production designs and schedules. He believes government should do the overall economic planning, and that government should lead a compassionate ear to the voice of organized labor.

"WE HAVE not forgotten that free enterprise initiative did not meet the requirements of war, and it must meet the requirements of peace," said Reuther in 1944. "We will permit free, private enterprise that degree of freedom necessary to make its maximum contribution in terms of employment; but if free, private enterprise fails to meet the requirements of our nation . . . then government will not hesitate to take those steps necessary . . ." This ominous threat reveals the real Walter Reuther. Do not underestimate his means for making the threat a reality.

In the old days, he toyed with the dream of a "third party." This idea was shelved after his tremendous success in the elections of 1948, but hangs like the sword of Damocles over the heads of many public officials, including governors and members of Congress, who owe their position to Reuther support.

The grand strategy for 1958 is to put more of these "Reuther satellites" in orbit, in the Senate, the House of Representatives and in several governor's mansions, and thus to prepare for 1960, and the White House.

He can't get away with it, if the American people know and understand his motives.

Around and About . . .

Beppo, Italian Boatman, Lives in Memory

By Edward Lloyd Voorhees

A third citizen of Capri whom I shall always remember was Giuseppe Barretta, "Beppo," as he was locally known, was without "education" in the popular sense, but this lack was compensated by a natural intelligence, a good up-bringing, a constant desire to improve himself, and a perpetual observation of what was going on.

I met Beppo on my first visit to Capri, a day's excursion from Naples while our liner, the "Giuseppe Verdi," from America was docked for the day. Our little steamer "Capri" took us to the Blue Grotto, where Beppo was one of the 20 or more boatmen who took our passengers in their rowboats through the narrow, low opening into that vast sea cavern with its still looking for the mountains, they stopped to talk to a Mt. Trail resident:

"Where are the mountains? We've been pedaling for hours and all we can find are houses!"

(The alerted police gently headed the young adventurers homeward with dispatch.)

"MRS. CITY HALL," Bea Thompson, returned to her double duties (as Planning Commission Secretary and Larry Bevington's secretary) following a fortnight's tour of National Parks.

PROBABLY FIGURING a tie-in between the type of personalities involved in the recent Canyon narcotics raid and the type of literature on the arrestee's bookshelves, the police reportedly questioned local librarians concerning these books found: Kerouac's "Subterraneans" and Costeau's "Opium."

stirred-up peacock-blue and silver water" dapping the high ceiling, and, while the raucous cries of the boatmen made deafening echoes.

MY TWO American friends then took the little steamer to the port of Capri, but I accepted Beppo's offer, for a small sum, to take me there in his trim little skiff, the "Maria."

Keeping closer to the shore than could the steamer, Beppo pointed out the small bathing beaches, the small grottoes, the ancient Roman ruins of Tiberius's swimming pool, the famous villa San Michele, and on a high cliff a small standpipe marking a tiny spring, not yet productive, on an island as yet without underground water.

Beppo, a well-spoken, personable man of nearly my own age, proved to be a better than usual guide, and interesting as a human being. Much of his speech was Capri dialect, much of it hard to decipher.

However, he was patient in repeating words and phrases that puzzled me, and we managed to exchange considerable information in our respective languages, for he was as eager to learn English as I was to practice Italian. When I drew from my hip pocket the small English-Italian dictionary which was my perpetual "vade mecum," his face lit up with an added interest, and our communications grew somewhat easier.

HE SHOWED a lively interest in such matters as the wages of manual laborers and skilled mechanics in "gli Stati Uniti" (the United States), and in our cost of rent, food, fuel, and clothing. He told me, in return, the wages paid for ordinary labor in Capri at that time (1926), from 10 to 20 lire per day (50c to $1). There being more men than full-time jobs, "Mussolini," he said, "had so arranged things—that we call 'staggiando'—what as many men as possible could have work at least part of the week—provided the men were acceptable to the local Fascist officials, not always impartial!"

This enabled one so favored, he said, to pay the fixed minimum rent and eat enough to be able to work, such things as the usual "pasta" (white flour products) some vegetables, a bit of fruit, and meat once a week, usually on Sundays, the feast day, with maybe a glass of "vino ordinario." Beppo's family responsibilities included a wife and three children.

WITH THE AID of the dictionary and our mutual interest in the matters discussed and in each other as human beings from opposite hemispheres, by the time we arrived at the port there had sprung up between Beppo and me a feeling of mutual trust and liking. That first encounter ended by my promising, if ever I returned to Capri, to look up Beppo for any need I might have for a boatman or a guide. Meanwhile, I would recommend him to any American friends, or other acquaintances, likely to come to Capri.

He gave me his printed card, and we shook hands as we parted. I took the "funicular" (cable car) to the Piazzetta, 500 feet above the sea, where I joined my two American friends for lunch. Later that afternoon we returned to Naples on our liner, the "Giuseppe Verdi" to Genoa. But I had not seen the last of Beppo, nor he of me.

Gospel of John Is Fortnighter's Discussion Topic

The witness of John the Baptist and his disciples, and the self-revelation of Jesus in Judea, Galilee, and Samaria will be the themes investigated when the Fortnighters meet at the Congregational Church this Friday at 8 p.m.

They will study the Gospel of John, with particular attention to the second, third, and fourth chapters.

All interested adults are invited to attend the group, which is non-technical and undogmatic in its approach to the Scriptures. The meeting is held in the church parlor.

"Seek first His Kingdom and His righteousness, and all things shall be yours as well." — Read Matthew 6:25-34

THE INNER LIFE of many people is simply vacant, contends Samuel H. Shoe maker in "How To Become A Christian." He says they may once have had a faith to give life meaning, but widespread materialism about them, and the corollaries of a secularist philosophy of education, have robbed them of it.

GREAT NUMBERS of people still think only stupid and illiterate folk "believe" in anything, and that clever educated people have been emancipated from the confinements and superstitions of faith.

MANY OF OUR EMOTIONS and values remain Christian, but in the end these go by the board, too; for unless something in the universe sustains and sanctions them, such things are the fiction of man's undependable feelings.

SO WE FILL our hands and our time with all kinds of activity to make us forget, while our souls are empty of those convictions and standards which alone give life purpose and direction.

PEOPLE TURN to pleasure, business, TV, sex, drink, drugs—anything to while away leisure—and forget the yawning vacuum that gapes in the place where their souls ought to be.

OUR BODY dies at our death. Our soul alone survives. Yet we stuff the body and starve the soul, living for the moment and forgetting eternity.

TODAY'S BEST OFFER—Spiritual food for the soul—God's living words—served every Sunday. Come to the Upper Room.

Read Widely, You'll Learn Something

By Marie Wald
City Librarian

For the benefit of the Sierra Madreans who unfortunately missed Georgiana Hardy's talk at the Library last Friday evening, here is a brief resume.

She might have called it "Why Read?" Brain tissue, like muscle tissue, grows flabby unless exercised; and like muscle tissue, a general toning up benefits the whole—in other words, the exercise necessary to grasp an idea makes us sharper in using the concepts by which we operate in our everyday lives.

The easiest and most available exercise can be had by reading books; but, Mrs. Hardy stressed, don't always read just about things that interest you or reinforce the opinions you already have—try something once in a while you think you won't like, or that you feel is too difficult.

SHE MENTIONED that she had read six books on skin-diving for her television reviews. She never expects to do any diving, but she knows a great deal now about the underwater world and its potentials for the human race, and, most important from a personal standpoint, another vista has been opened for her. The world is so full of so many things, that one is only cheating himself if he limits his reading only to his present interests.

Mrs. Hardy's remarks to parents were equally to the point. If parents don't read books themselves (magazines don't count, says Mrs. Hardy), but hand their children books with the admonition "Read," the children will have the idea that reading is merely a childish task, something that adults don't have to do.

Conversely, the parents can create healthy environment for their children's intellectual development by setting the example of reading and, just as important, discussing with each other critically the ideas presented by the author.

In fact, says Mrs. Hardy, who is a member of the Los Angeles School Board and knows whereof she speaks, in the schools children exposed to such an environment are easily distinguished from those whose parents never get around to discussing ideas, or movies, or TV shows, or anything but personalities in a critical manner.

Mowery-Peterson Nuptials In Adventist Church

Marian Peterson, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Mervin H. A. Peterson, 417 E. Montecito, exchanged nuptial vows with Llewellyn L. Mowery, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Mowery of Toppenish, Wash., June 12 in Pasadena Seventh-day Adventist Church. Rev. J. F. Knipschild officiated.

The bride, escorted down the aisle by her father, chose a white lace and tulle over satin gown fashioned with a sequin trimmed scoop neckline and fitted bodice. The full bouffant skirt fell into a chapel train. Her fingertip illusion veil was caught by a crown of matching lace embroidered with sequins. She carried a bouquet of white orchids and stephanotis.

The groom's mother wore a rose ensemble with a white orchid corsage. Patricia Graven, Delores Miller, Gladys Baker and Beth Peterson assisted at the church reception which followed the ceremony.

The bride graduated from Pacific Union College in 1956 and since that time has been employed at the Southern California Conference of Seventh-day Adventists in Glendale as a secretary.

THE GROOM attended Pacific Union College and is now enrolled in the dental school at College of Medical Evangelists, Loma Linda, Calif.

The bride wore a blue embroidered cotton sheath with a white duster and accessories when she left for a Balboa honeymoon.

The newly married couple will make their home at 475 1/2 S. San Juan, Loma Linda.

Mt. Wilson Races Top Events in Early 1900's

(This is the third article on the old Mt. Wilson Trail, its history and some of the incidents that made the trek to the top an exciting venture. Another article will appear next week in The Sierra Madre News.)

By Bill Wark

Unique among the sporting events in Sierra Madre during the early years were the Mt. Wilson Trail races, held during April or May from 1908 to 1912.

The course was from Sierra Madre to Mt. Wilson over the old trail, a distance of seven and a half miles. Usually a score of the best athletes on the Pacific Coast entered, and the events proved highly exciting.

The idea of the race originated with Charles J. Fox, then a resident of Sierra Madre. His father, Richard K. Fox, was publisher of the Police Gazette and offered a beautiful gold medal valued at $100 to the athlete who could win the race three times.

EACH YEAR the name and record of the winner were engraved on a bar which was added to the medal, so the final winner would have a complete record of the series of contests. However, no man ever won it twice.

The first race in 1908 was won by Joseph B. King of the Irish-American Club of San Francisco. He made the ascent in one hour, 25 minutes and 30 seconds which was considered remarkable time. It was even more remarkable in that the first race was a round trip affair of 15 miles with only one-half hour's rest at the top.

King's actual time for the round trip was two hours, 11 minutes and 30 seconds. Since then the race consisted merely of the ascent of the mountain.

EDWARD DIETRICK of the Los Angeles Athletic Club won the second race in 1909; his time was just a fraction over one hour and 29 minutes. E. J. Gregg won the third race in 1910—his time, one hour and 26 minutes.

L. C. Farley, a very determined young man from Los Angeles who had finished third in 1909 and second in 1910, made the all-time record in 1911 when he made the ascent in one hour, 24 minutes and one second.

After managing the first race himself, Fox turned the medal over to the Sierra Madre Board of Trade which held it as a trophy, subject to the original conditions.

Perhaps the best known and certainly one of the wealthiest men to enjoy the trail, was Henry Ford, multi-millionaire automobile manufacturer of Detroit, who hiked the trail in 1915.

A NEWSPAPER article from William P. Caley's scrap book tells of Henry Ford stopping for refreshments in the lunch room at the foot of the trail. It records the following conversation:

"I think I would like to sell out," said the proprietor in a casual conversation. "Would you like to invest in a lunch room?"

"Well, I already own an automobile factory. I recent-

FARM RECORD

Southern California agriculture recorded its fifth consecutive record-breaking year in 1957, reaching an all-time high of $1,589,568,655 in crop and livestock production, the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce announced yesterday. Values in 1957 were nearly $40 million greater than for 1956.

Take your problems to Church this week —

Millions Leave Them There!

A Convincing Fact

Frequent facing of facts is good for you. Here is a salient one. The first law of life on earth and the one upon which a truly successful life depends is "LOVE THY NEIGHBOR." This is not easy for it means also love of your enemies, those who are repellant to you and those who use you wrongfully. It is a big order!

However, it can be done if you work at, pray and strive for it. The Church can be an invaluable aid in speeding the day when you can say, "I love my neighbor." Immediately someone points out that there are many who attend church regularly who do not carry out this commandment. True, and there are also many who go through college without gaining an education. It is there to be had, nevertheless. Attending the church of their faith has helped many to live this commandment and it will help bring all in tune with it who have a sincere desire to attain the goal. If you do not use it, now is the time to face facts, taking those problems to church with you this very week!

With the hope that it will, in some measure, foster and help sustain that which is good in family and community life, this feature is sponsored by the business firms and organizations whose names appear in this space.

VIEWSBy Toni Maurin
SYCAMORE 79-634

And how do YOU feel? Frankly, I just feel terrible. I've watched so many television commercials I'm just unhooked. I'll never take another aspirin without thinking of all of those little "A's" running around my system.

I tremble every time I see the ad where they pour the anti-acids into your middle like it was a sponge. I'm sure my teeth are going to fall out and if I hear "Look, Mom! No cavities!" with those grinning little kids again I'm going to crawl under the bed.

My hair is wild, my skin is bad and I have ingrown toenails, and I'm just too frustrated to know what product to use. My insides have been exposed, washed, de-acidized, tranquilized, pepped up, stamped on, so that I'm sure my blood is more than tired — it's just plain worn out.

MR. AND MRS. R. B. English of 3033 Doyle Road entertained around 70 people last Saturday evening with a folk dancing party and late buffet.

The guests were all from a group of people who have called themselves the Mountain Dancers. They specialize in all the old folk dances. They dress in full skirts with the apron, and the men wear Lederhosen and calf warmers, which is the typical costume of the Austrians or Germans.

They have become so well known that they are being constantly contacted to demonstrate their dances for private groups. They have danced at Disneyland, they had a group at the Philharmonic Auditorium for the Folk Dance Festival, and also danced in Palm Springs.

YOSEMITE LODGE in Yosemite National Park must have some special lure for folks on Old House Road. Mr. and Mrs. John Chapman went up with their two younger children, Chrissy and Jim, last Thursday, for a long weekend. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Philipson and their four children, David, Alice, Bobby and Jeanie, went up last Friday for three days.

THE ROBERT R. Griswold Jr. home at 1215 Sierra Madre Villa was the scene of Mr. Griswold's sister's wedding. The bride, Miss Sue Ann Griswold, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Griswold Sr. The groom is John Francis Otto Jr. from Portland, Ore. The bride was given in marriage by her father, and her matron of honor was Mrs. Robert Griswold Jr. The best man was Hollister Peake.

Both the bride and groom are students at Chaulinart Art College. The groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Otto Sr., came down for the wedding. There were about 50 guests for the wedding and the reception which followed immediately after the service. Rev. Donald Ostrander of Trinity Presbyterian Church officiated. The bride and groom departed immediately for a brief honeymoon in Portland.

Yankees Are Little League
Champs for First Half

The Yankees by winning both of their games last week clinched the championship of the first half, no matter what happens this week, the final week of the first half of the season.

The Reds still hold down second place although they ran into a little trouble, losing the continuation of a tie game with the Tigers and dropping the Friday contest to the Dodgers.

The Dodgers by defeating the Reds 3-2 moved up into a position to challenge for second place. The Tigers were the surprise of the week by getting into the win column twice when they defeated the Reds in a continuation of a tie game and on Friday when they won over the Indians.

With one week to go in the minors first place is still very much undecided with versity. Then the following week, June 8th, they went on to Wichita, where he recited nuptial vows with Miss Dana Haglund, daughter of Mr. Haglund and Mrs. D. E. Haglund. The Greiners' eldest son, Larry, was unable to attend the ceremony as he is working in Sweden for the summer. He plans to return in the fall and complete his Master's Degree at Harvard Business College.

UP ON . . .

Hastings Hill

We had another accident at the Hastings Ranch and Alegria intersection. So far, we have been fortunate in that there have been no serious injuries. However, how long can we be so lucky? This accident happened at 2 p.m., just about the time school was out. One of the cars ended up on the sidewalk and parkway. Supposing all of this had happened a few minutes later when the children were waiting to cross the street. In any event, a call to the Pasadena Traffic Analyst's office has assured us of a new survey of this intersection. Let us hope it will result in "good firm" stop signs rather than the present "yield."

THE VIC CAFE home was converted into a "dorm for women" when daughter, Debra, celebrated her 12th birthday. Patsy Carley, Paula Hillard, Milinda Hays, Robin Hardison, Lora Krotz, Andrea Judd, Cheryl McKibbin, Maya Morse, Nancy Taylor, Deanna Rowan, Sue Wynn and Gale Tampoico arrived for a "slumber party" which included a scavenger hunt, night swim, taffy pull, raid on the refrigerator, morning swim and breakfast.

THE RANCH'S annual bridge tournament is all over, but this year's champions, Amy and Joe Philipson, will long remember the event. When sponsors of the tournament were handing out electric mixers and other appliances to top scorers, Amy and Joe ahemed "Er, ah, if it's all the same to you, we'd like a bathinette." It seems they will welcome the fifth little Philipson in a few months.

OUR GOOD friend, Everett "Bud" Keegan in the liquor department at Shopping Bag, has joined the ranks of those to be congratulated. He and his wife are the parents of a baby boy born June 3. Of course, he celebrated by going to bed with a virus the day his wife came home from the hospital.

The senior class had their "Hawaiian Night" last week. The patio dinner was followed by dancing, miniature golf, fortune telling, prizes and photographs.

Lucie went barefooted and wearing an old black formal she had had in college, slit up to here on one side and wound here and there with grass out of the fish bowl to lend an "air" of authenticity. (Pete in shrinked pants available because Lucie misread the label about cleaning instructions.)

Harry and Eleanor Masser, who seem to show up at every party in the vicinity, were prize winners, she in Harry's old Navy coat over her slip, and in white ribbon headache band (salvaged possibly because it was her most cherished possession) and Harry in no socks, no pants and no shirt, but well-dressed in shoes, flowered shorts, tux and tie.

July Session

A few openings remain in the summer session of the Hastings Ranch Nursery School, to be held from July 7 through Aug. 17, according to Mrs. Lee Carmichael, director.

This summer's session, the first to be held at the school, will not use parent assistants but will be operated by Mrs. Carmichael, two staff members and two college girls as student teachers. Ordinarily the school is a co-operative, with mothers assisting teachers.

The session will be limited to 26 pre-school aged boys and girls, will be held on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, and will feature a relaxed schedule with emphasis on water play and creative activity.

The regular school semester closes tomorrow. Information on the summer program may be obtained from Mrs. Carmichael at the school at ELgin 5-1298, or from the president, Mrs. Conrad Creim, at SYcamore 2-2867.

DANGEROUS INTERSECTION—Scene of a two-car collision last Friday afternoon was at Hastings Ranch Drive and Alegria in Upper Hastings Ranch. Residents of the area have requested the erection of a stop sign at the intersection, but so far their efforts have been unsuccessful. There is, however, a "yield right of way" sign on Alegria. Involved in the crash last Friday were Mrs. J. Bryce Tyler, Sierra Madre, whose damaged car is at left, and Peter Mulder, 2470 Paloma, Pasadena. No one was seriously hurt in the accident.

FAVORITE LET'S pretend game of youngsters in City of Hope children's wing is—of all things—playing doctor, patient and nurse. "Doc" listens in on stethoscope, tests reactions and orders a shot for grinning patient. June contributions to the City of Hope provide care without charge for victims of all ages suffering from catastrophic diseases as well as funds to concentrate a whole arsenal of scientific weapons on obliteration of destructive maladies. Those missed by Hope Sunday campaigners are urged by Louis Tabak, Medical Center president, to mail donations now so that door of hope may be kept open to others who need help.

... Fire Flames ...

By Chief James Heasley

(This is the last column written by Chief Heasley. His unexpected death Tuesday saddened all of Sierra Madre.)

Few people give it much thought, while others wonder how volunteer firemen respond so soon after the alarm sounds. It must be realized that all the men are at their work in the daytime and at their homes at night.

Sierra Engineering and R. A. Hawks Co. on Montecito permits members of the Fire Department to answer fire calls. There are a number of firemen who work there. Assistant Chief Charlie Brown and Assistant Chief Gene Toms are there in the daytime and each has his personal car parked in front of the door for immediate action when called.

CHIEF BROWN'S small truck is equipped for first aid and fire fighting, with a small pressure tank filled with water, hose attached, fire extinguishers and tools. On many occasions Brown has arrived early enough to extinguish a fire before it reached the stage necessary to apply water from the fire hose.

When a fire alarm is phoned in by a resident, it is answered by the Police Department and the area immediately sounded off by the automatic horn. At the first blast, those nearest are headed for the fire station. A communication system between the police office and the fire station informs the first driver who arrives, of the location, and he leaves, with others to follow in their own cars.

This should explain to drivers of cars and those who walk in the street that to delay the firemen may be serious.

When the fire truck has passed, it would be of great help if drivers would pull off to the side to permit firemen and their cars to get by. It is unlawful for cars to drive in the block of a fire, so it ill behooves anyone to insist on getting too close.

EXCITEMENT reigns, no doubt, but think of the people whose house may be afire. It is very important to get to the fire within the first few minutes. Firemen realize this much more than the average citizen. We also realize that the sound of the very obnoxious horn means some sort of excitement and that there are those who cannot resist curiosity.

All that we ask is that we be given a fair chance to get to our destination before the fire gets completely out of control. We look for and expect to be criticized with some sarcastic insinuations. Even the experts get that. Let's keep the FIRES OUT.

Only 7 per Cent of Swimmers Are Competent in Water

By Roy O. Gilbert, M.D., L.A. County Health Officer

Swimming contributes a great deal to the summer fun of both youngsters and adults. It also has the added advantage of being one of the most healthful forms of recreation that adapts itself easily to the individual's capacity for exercise.

Now that swimming pools are in operation all over the county, there is no better time than the present for non-swimmers—ranging from small fry to grandparents—to learn a skill that will increase immeasurably the pleasure and safety of vacation days.

In addition to the fact that swimming is a pleasant, healthful exercise it also can be a life saver. Last year, in the United States, approximately 4,000 deaths from drowning were recorded and the main reason given is lack of swimming skill.

Not very long ago, as a matter of fact, the American Red Cross Water Safety Service stated that less than 7 per cent of bathing suit owners could swim skillfully enough to keep from drowning when certain emergencies occur.

Splashing around is fun but if more people learned to swim well, instead of so aimlessly entertaining themselves, the number of deaths from drowning would be very much less.

The ability to swim with skill gives the individual confidence when in the water and the fear that so often paralyzes the inexperienced or non-swimmer in a crisis is lacking. However, no matter how expertly a person may handle himself in the water, carelessness may also result in a fatal accident. Common sense safety precautions must be observed at all times.

FOR INSTANCE, never dive into unknown water, the depth of which is untested, or go swimming alone. Don't venture far out into rough water in a light boat and never stand up if the water is at all deep.

Don't swim immediately after a heavy meal. The process of digestion draws a large amount of blood to the stomach, resulting in heat production. A sudden chilling upon contact with cold water may produce the so-called "cramps" or intestinal spasms which are almost completely incapacitating.

Perennials Play Large Role in State Gardens

Perennial bedding plants play a wide range of roles in California gardens. They can be used in large, colorful masses, to fill narrow beds, in evergreen shrub borders or in perennial borders. This year gardeners may find the plants in nursery flats especially useful, since the long rainy season ruined many a gardening plan.

Two of the most highly recommended perennials are Transvaal daisies and marguerites, says the California Association of Nurserymen.

THE FAMILIAR daisy flower and the exquisite colors of the Transvaal daisy are two of its popular assets. The four-inch slender-rayed flowers can be bought in several tones of yellow, white, cream, pink, coral, rose, orange and red. During the May to December blooming season these flowers, the botanical name is Gerbera jamesoni, grow 18 inches tall. The clustered grey-green foliage beneath the flowers and stems is 10 inches high.

Transvaal daisies are most stunning raised by themselves, perhaps in mixed colors. They should be planted in sun or partial shade and sheltered from the wind. Care is limited to regular deep waterings and division of clumps every three years.

Marguerites made gardening news in the last few years when a new pink form was developed. They are available now at local nurseries. The other members of the family are white or Golden Marguerites (Anthemus tinctoria) and the Blue Marguerites (felicia).

Pink Marguerites are medium-growing plants, averaging two feet, which make excellent edgings around permanent planting. They have slightly larger blossoms than the Golden Marguerites.

GOLDEN MARGUERITES bear two-inch daisy-like flowers on two to three-foot shrubs. Heavily-scented green foliage is an added attraction. The lower growing Blue Marguerites (in sky-blue or a deeper shade) add a cool touch to summer gardens. Your nurseryman knows them by the name of Felicia, or Agatha.

Gardeners may enjoy blooming marguerites all summer long by staggering their buying. Sun-loving marguerites should be planted in light, rich soil and watered frequently during the dry season.

Hot Bread Is Perfect
Complement for a Barbecue

By Toni Maurin
SYcamore 7-9634

With summer here and hot weather approaching, thoughts should turn to meals that are simple to prepare and yet interesting to eat. There is nothing that complements a summer barbecue meal better than a hot bread.

You can always dress it up in the usual ways with parmesan cheese or garlic butter. However, with a little advance preparation, you can make herb butters and store them in your refrigerator for long periods of time and give a real gourmet touch to your meals.

There are many combinations that are excellent and the sky is the limit so far as experimenting is concerned.

There is no rule that says you have to use French bread for these herb butters. Here is a recipe that I am particularly fond of. It calls for one loaf of unsliced sandwich bread.

HERB BREAD
1/2 lb. butter or margarine
2 tbs. chopped green onion tops
1 tsp. sweet basil, dried
2 tbs. chopped parsley
2 tbs. chopped celery leaves
2 tbs. lemon juice

Allow the herbs to marinate in the lemon juice for about 30 minutes and then blend in soft butter until lemon juice is absorbed. Set aside for a while to cure. (Preferably over night). Cut bread in 1/4-inch slices and spread with herb butter. Reassemble loaf and wrap in foil. Bake in a 350° F. oven for 25 minutes. Serve hot. Dry herbs may be substituted for all the fresh herbs indicated and butter will keep indefinitely.

MUSTARD BREAD
1/4 cup butter or margarine
2 tbs. chopped parsley
1/2 cup chopped green onions
2 tsp. French mustard

Spread on bread of your choice and sprinkle top with either sesame seeds or poppy seeds. Arrange on cookie sheet and heat in a 350° F. oven for about 12 minutes.

THE BASIC recipe for herb butter consists of 1 tsp. lemon juice and 1 tbs. freshly minced herbs or 1/2 tsp. dried herbs or powder for 1/4 cup sweet butter, and salt to taste. I don't use the sweet butter myself although I know it brings out the flavor of delicate herbs more than the salted variety. However, unless your taste buds are extremely delicate, I'm sure that you will notice little difference.

May I offer a few suggestions for simple preparation using the basic ingredients? Substitute 2 tsp. chopped capers instead of the herbs, as a complement to chicken or fish salads; 1 1/2 tbs. of chili sauce instead of herbs gives a piquant flavor. To zing up a bland meal, add 1/4 to 1/2 tsp. curry powder instead of herbs to your basic recipe. Dill butter is made with 1 tbs. of fresh dill minced and added to basic recipe.

THE FOLLOWING combination of herbs go well together and may be used in

Attractions Set at Greek Theater

The Greek Theatre box office opened last Monday for the advance sale of tickets for the 1958 season of six attractions to be presented in the city-owned amphitheater this summer.

Located at the head of Vermont Avenue in Griffith Park, the box office will be open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. every day, including Sundays, prior to the season opening June 27. Thereafter it will remain open until 9 p.m.

The entertaining quality and variety of the programs this year have accounted for the heaviest season ticket orders in the history of the Greek Theatre.

OPENING THE schedule on June 27 will be the international song idol, Maurice Chevalier, appearing for eight performances, followed by Jose Greco and his company of Spanish and Flamenco dancers starting July 7.

Next will be the world-famous ballet company, "Les Ballets de Paris," starring Jeannine and Roland Petit in a series of three ballets featuring their interpretation of "Carmen." This company opens July 14, and will be followed by another internationally recognized artist, Danny Kaye, playing from July 21 through August 3.

The final two attractions will be the spicy and witty operetta, "La Perichole," and the full length ballet, "Giselle," to be produced by James A. Doolittle, general director of the Greek Theatre Association.

"La Perichole" comes almost intact from the Metropolitan Opera Co. The same version, so successful at the Metropolitan the past two seasons, will be used. Settings and costumes will come from the eastern production.

CYRIL RITCHARD will direct and star as he did in New York, and many of the original cast which included Osie Hawkins, Madeline Chambers, Theodor Uppman, and ballerina Micheline Bardin will play their roles in the local engagement. "Giselle" will be the first American production of the complete full length version of the ballet, and its dancing stars will be the world famous Alicia Alonso and Igor Youskevitch. Miss Alonso will stage the ballet as she did "Coppelia," a sold out success on last year's program at the Greek Theatre.
